UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

JASON SCHOLDER, on behalf of himself and all others similarly situated,  Plaintiff,  v.  TOPCO HOLDINGS, INC., and TOPCO ASSOCIATES, LLC,  Defendant.	Case No.  CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT  DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiff, Jason Scholder (“Plaintiff” or “Scholder”), a resident of New York, individually and on behalf of other similarly situated individuals, by and through his counsel, hereby files this Class Action Complaint for equitable relief and damages, against Defendant, Topco Holdings, Inc., and its subsidiary, Topco Associates, LLC (hereinafter, “Topco”), and alleges the following based upon information, belief, and the investigation of his counsel:

1. Topco aggressively advertises and promotes its Granola Oats, Honey & Almonds product, (hereinafter, “granola”)<sup>1</sup> as “100% natural.” This claim is false, deceptive, and misleading. Topco’s granola is not “100% natural,” but instead contains the chemical glyphosate, a potent herbicide that last year was declared a probable human carcinogen by the cancer research arm of the World Health Organization. Glyphosate makes its way into Topco’s granola not simply because it is used as an agricultural weed killer, but because it is sprayed on oats as a drying agent shortly before

2. There is nothing unlawful about Topco's growing and processing methods. What is unlawful is Topco's claim that its granola is something that it is not in order to capitalize on growing consumer demand for healthful, natural products.

3. Plaintiff brings this deceptive advertising case on behalf of a class of consumers who purchased Topco's granola in New York, and seeks relief including refunds to purchasers for the falsely advertised products and a court-ordered corrective advertising campaign to inform the public of the true nature of Topco's carcinogen-contaminated granola.

INTRODUCTION

4. This is a proposed Class Action Complaint against Topco Holdings, Inc., and its subsidiary, Topco Associates, LLC (hereinafter, "Topco"), for injunctive relief and economic damages based on misrepresentations and omissions committed by Topco regarding its Granola Oats, Honey & Almonds product ("granola"), which Topco falsely and deceptively labels and markets as "100% natural." See, Exhibit 1.

5. In fact, Topco's granola contains glyphosate, a potent and unnatural biocide.

6. Aware of the health risks and environmental damage caused by chemical-laden foods, especially packaged foods, consumers increasingly demand foods that are natural and whole, and that omit chemicals.

7. Topco knows that consumers seek out and wish to purchase whole, natural foods that do not contain chemicals, and that consumers will pay more for foods that they believe to be natural than they will pay for foods that they do not believe to be natural.

8. To capture this growing market, Topco labels its granola as "100% natural."

9. No reasonable consumer, seeing these representations, would expect Topco's granola to contain anything unnatural.

11. Glyphosate is not “Natural” or “100% Natural.” Glyphosate is a synthetic biocide and probable human carcinogen, with additional health dangers rapidly becoming known.

12. Glyphosate is “legal” in connection to food products, insofar as the law does not preclude the use of glyphosate in treating and harvesting crops. Topco, however, did not and does not simply claim that its granola is “legal,” it claims that its granola is “100% natural.” See, Exhibit 1.

13. By deceiving consumers about the nature, quality, and/or ingredients of its granola, Topco is able to sell a greater volume of its granola, to charge higher prices for its granola, and to take away market share from competing products, thereby increasing its own sales and profits.

14. Consumers lack the scientific knowledge necessary to determine whether Topco’s granola is, in fact, “100% natural,” to know or to ascertain the true ingredients and quality of Topco’s granola, or to assess the safety of ingesting glyphosate. Reasonable consumers must and do rely on Topco to report honestly what its granola contains, and whether the ingredients are in fact “100% natural.”

15. Topco conceals the presence of glyphosate in its granola, fails to warn consumers of the presence of glyphosate, and fails to warn consumers about the harmful effects of ingesting glyphosate, which has been declared a probable human carcinogen by the cancer research arm of the World Health Organization.

16. Topco intended for consumers to rely on its representations, and hundreds of thousands of reasonable consumers did in fact so rely. As a result of its false and misleading labeling, failure to warn, and omissions of fact, Topco was able to sell its granola to hundreds of thousands of consumers throughout the United States and to realize sizeable profits.

17. When a product purports to be “100% natural,” consumers not only are willing to pay more for the product, they expect it to be pesticide-free.

18. Topco's false and misleading representations, failure to warn, and omissions of fact violate New York General Business Law ("GBL") §§ 349-50 and common law.

19. Plaintiff is not seeking damages for any personal injuries in this Complaint; rather, this case is based on Topco's misrepresentations and omissions regarding its granola purchased by Plaintiff and Class Members during the class period, defined below.<sup>2</sup>

20. Accordingly, Plaintiff, Scholder, seeks relief equal to the aggregate retail purchase price paid by Plaintiff and Class Members during the Class Period, because the products are worthless and useless due to Topco's misrepresentations regarding the true nature, quality, and ingredients of its granola and its failure to warn consumers of the presence of glyphosate and the harmful effects of ingesting glyphosate.

21. Plaintiff, Scholder, brings this action to stop Topco's deceptive and misleading practices.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

22. This Court has original subject-matter jurisdiction over this proposed class action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d), which under the provisions of the Class Action Fairness Act ("CAFA"), explicitly provides for the original jurisdiction of the federal courts in any class action in which at least 100 members are in the proposed plaintiff class, any member of the plaintiff class is a citizen of a State different from any defendant, and the matter in controversy exceeds the sum of $5,000,000.00, exclusive of interest and costs. Scholder is a citizen of New York, and on information and belief, Defendant, Topco, is a citizen of Illinois. On information and belief, the amount in controversy exceeds $5,000,000.00.

23. This Court has personal jurisdiction over the parties in this case. Plaintiff, Scholder, is a citizen of New York and resident of Nassau County, New York. Topco purposefully avails itself of the laws of New York to market its granola to consumers nationwide, including consumers in New York, and distributes its granola to numerous retailers throughout the United States, including New York.

24. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(a). Substantial acts in furtherance of the alleged improper conduct, including the dissemination of false and misleading information regarding the nature, quality, and/or ingredients of Topco's granola, occurred within this District.

PARTIES

25. At all times mentioned herein, Defendant, Topco, was and is a corporation that maintains its principal place of business and headquarters in Elk Grove Village, Illinois. Topco was, at all relevant times, engaged in commercial transactions throughout the United States and the State of New York, including this judicial District.

26. Topco manufactures and/or causes the manufacture of granola products, and markets and distributes the products in retail stores in New York and throughout the United States.

27. At all times mentioned herein, Plaintiff, Scholder, was and is an individual consumer over the age of 18, a citizen of the State of New York, and a resident of the County of Nassau. During the class period, Plaintiff, Scholder, purchased Topco's granola on multiple occasions at a King Kullen supermarket store located on Northern Boulevard in Manhasset, New York.

28. In deciding to make his purchases, Plaintiff, Scholder, saw, relied upon, and reasonably believed Topco's representations that its granola is "100% natural."

29. Plaintiff, Scholder, was willing to pay more for Topco's granola because he expected it to be pesticide-free.

30. Had Plaintiff, Scholder, known at the time that Topco's granola contains the unnatural biocide glyphosate, he would not have purchased or continued to purchase Topco's granola.

31. Had Scholder been warned of the dangers of ingesting glyphosate, and of the presence of glyphosate in Topco's granola, he would not have purchased Topco's granola.

32. If Topco's granola was reformulated such that Topco's representations were truthful, i.e., such that its granola was "100% natural", and contained no glyphosate, Scholder would consider purchasing Topco's granola in the future.

SUBSTANTIVE ALLEGATIONS

33. American consumers increasingly and consciously seek out natural and healthful food products. Once a small niche market, healthful, natural foods are now sold by conventional retailers, and their sales continue to soar. The trend toward natural and healthful food products includes, for many consumers, a preference for whole grains over processed or otherwise refined grains.

34. Consumers value natural foods, including whole grains, for myriad health, environmental, and political reasons, including avoiding chemicals and additives, attaining health and wellness, helping the environment, and financially supporting companies that share these values.

A. Topco's "Natural" Brand Image

35. Hoping to capture this growing market, Topco markets its granola as "100% natural." Topco does not disclose the presence in its granola of anything other than "whole grain" and "100% natural" oats, honey and almonds.

36. Topco cultivates its image as a healthful, wholesome, impurity-free brand—the kind of company whose label claims can be trusted.

38. Nowhere on its label does Topco mention the presence of glyphosate in its granola.

39. Nowhere on its label does Topco warn of the health risks of ingesting glyphosate.

40. Nowhere on its label does Topco explain the environmental risks presented by glyphosate.

B. Topco's Granola: Presented as "100% natural"

41. Topco prominently labels and promotes its granola products as "100% natural." This representation appears on the label of the product.

42. Upon information and belief, Topco has profited enormously from its fraudulently marketed products and its carefully orchestrated label and image.

43. Representing that a product is "100% natural" is a statement of fact.

44. Failing to disclose that a product contains glyphosate, and failing to warn of the dangers of ingesting glyphosate, are omissions of relevant fact.

45. Consumers reasonably believe that a product labeled "100% natural" does not contain synthetic ingredients.

47. In 2014, the Consumer Reports® National Research Center conducted a nationally representative phone survey to assess consumer opinion regarding food labeling. See, <http://www.prnewswire.com/news-releases/consumer-reports-survey-majority-of-americans-look-for-natural-label-when-shopping-believe-it-carries-benefits-despite-the-contrary-263259671.html> (last visited October 28, 2016).

48. Sixty-six percent of all respondents in the Consumer Reports survey said that a "natural" label on packaged and processed foods means that "no toxic pesticides were used." Eighty-six percent of respondents said that a "natural" label on packaged and processed foods should mean that "no toxic pesticides were used." See Id.

49. Consumers reasonably believe that a product labeled "natural" or "100% natural" or does not contain anything other than natural oats, honey or almonds.

50. Topco knows and intends that when consumers see the product labels promising the product is "100% natural," consumers will understand that to mean that, at the very least, the product does not contain synthetic ingredients or harmful chemicals.

51. Consumers reasonably expect that if a product contains a harmful substance, the presence of that substance will be disclosed, and they will be warned of the dangers associated with the substance.

C. Glyphosate: The Unnatural Hidden Substance

52. Topco's representations that its granola is "100% natural" is false. In fact, quantitative testing reveals that Topco's granola contains glyphosate.

53. Topco's granola thus is not "100% natural" and labeling it as such is misleading and deceptive.

54. Topco has a duty to disclose the presence of glyphosate and to warn of the dangers associated with glyphosate.

55. On information and belief, glyphosate is, by volume, the world's most widely produced herbicide.

56. Glyphosate was invented by the agrochemical and agricultural biotechnology corporation, Monsanto, which began marketing the herbicide in 1974 under the trade name Roundup, after DDT was banned.<sup>3</sup>

57. By the late 1990s, use of Roundup had surged as a result of Monsanto's strategy of genetically engineering seeds to grow food crops that could tolerate high doses of the herbicide. The introduction of these genetically engineered seeds enabled farmers more easily to control weeds on their crops.<sup>4</sup>

58. Monsanto also encouraged farmers to use Roundup as a desiccant to dry out their crops in order to harvest them faster. Today, glyphosate is routinely sprayed directly on a host of non-genetically modified crops, such as oats.<sup>5</sup> On information and belief, this use of glyphosate is not for any health or environmental purpose, and stems solely from a desire to increase profit margins through higher crop yield.

59. Between 1996 and 2011, herbicide use in the United States increased by 527 million pounds, despite Monsanto's claims that genetically modified crops would reduce pesticide and herbicide use.<sup>6</sup>

60. In 2015, the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC), a research arm of the World Health Organization, declared glyphosate a category 2A "probable" human carcinogen. A summary of the study underlying this declaration was published in The Lancet Oncology, Vol. 16, No. 5 (May 2015).<sup>7</sup> The IARC study noted such carcinogenic risk factors as DNA damage to human cells resulting from exposure to glyphosate. See id. Glyphosate has been previously found to be a suspected human endocrine disruptor, with estrogenic effects even at extremely low concentrations.<sup>8</sup>

61. In November 2015, the European Food Safety Agency published conclusions suggesting that the combined use of glyphosate with other chemicals posed greater potential health risks than when glyphosate is used alone. In light of those conclusions, in April 2016, following a review of products containing glyphosate and tallow amine, France's health and safety agency announced its intention to ban weed-killers that combine the two chemicals.<sup>9</sup>

62. Glyphosate, as a biocide, functions by disrupting the shikimate pathway.<sup>10</sup> Although humans themselves do not have a shikimate pathway, the shikimate pathway is present in bacteria, including bacteria that inhabit the human gut and are essential to proper immune functioning. Glyphosate thus is suspected to disrupt human immune function as well.

63. Studies examining low doses of glyphosate-based herbicides at levels that are generally considered "safe" for humans show that these compounds can nevertheless cause liver and kidney damage.<sup>11</sup>

64. Glyphosate is derived from the amino acid, glycine. To create glyphosate, one of the hydrogen atoms in glycine is artificially replaced with a phosphonomethyl group.

65. Glyphosate is not “natural.”

66. Glyphosate is neither “all natural”, “100% natural” nor naturally present in oats.

67. Glyphosate is a dangerous substance, the presence and dangers of which should be disclosed.

D. Topco’s Misleading Labeling and Omissions

68. Topco’s conduct in labeling its granola “100% natural” deceived and/or was likely to deceive the public. Consumers were deceived into believing that the listed ingredients were all the ingredients, and that the product was “100% natural,” and that nothing in Topco’s granola was not “natural.” Instead, Topco’s granola contains glyphosate, an unnatural biocide and probable human carcinogen, with myriad other potential health effects.

69. Consumers cannot discover the true nature of Topco’s granola from reading the label. Consumers cannot discover the true nature of Topco’s granola even by visiting its website, which makes no mention of glyphosate. Discovery of the true nature of the ingredients requires knowledge of chemistry and access to laboratory testing that is not available to the average reasonable consumer.

70. Topco deceptively and misleadingly conceals material facts about its granola, namely, that it is not “100% natural,” and that Topco’s granola is not what a reasonable consumer would consider “100% natural,” because in fact it contains glyphosate.

72. Plaintiff and the members of the Class are not at fault for failing to discover Topco's wrongs earlier, and had no actual or presumptive knowledge of facts sufficient to put them on inquiry notice.

73. The production process Topco uses for its granola is known only to Topco and its suppliers. Topco has not disclosed such information to Plaintiff or the Class members. Quantitative testing reveals the presence of glyphosate in Topco's granola, but only Topco knows the methods by which it is processed, or what would account for the presence of glyphosate in its granola. Topco's concealment tolls the applicable statute of limitations.

74. To this day, Topco continues to conceal and suppress the true nature, identity, source, and method of production of its granola.

E. Topco's Knowledge That Its Representations Were False

75. Topco holds itself out to the public as a trusted expert in the processing of oats.

76. Topco knew what representations it made on the labels of its granola. It also knew how the oats were processed and that it was likely to contain glyphosate, an unnatural and dangerous herbicide.

77. Topco thus knew all the facts demonstrating that its granola was mislabeled and falsely advertised, and that it had a duty to disclose the presence of glyphosate and to warn consumers about the dangers associated with glyphosate.

F. Topco's Intention That Consumers Rely on Its Misrepresentations

78. Topco made the false, deceptive, and misleading representations and omissions intending for Plaintiff and the Class members to rely upon these representations and omissions in purchasing its granola.

79. In making the false, misleading, and deceptive representations and omissions at issue, Topco knew and intended that consumers would purchase its granola when consumers would otherwise purchase a competing product.

80. Consumers are not only willing to pay more for a product that purports to be "all natural" or "100% natural," they expect that product to be pesticide-free.

81. In making the false, misleading, and deceptive representations and omissions at issue, Topco also knew and intended that consumers would pay more for "all natural" or "100% natural" oats that are free of unnatural agents than they would pay for oats that are not "all natural" or "100% natural," furthering Topco's private interest of increasing sales of its products and decreasing the sales of the all-natural and/or glyphosate-free products that are truthfully marketed by its competitors.

82. Topco knows that consumers prefer "all natural" and "100% natural" foods, and foods that do not contain dangerous or potentially dangerous chemicals. Topco knows that consumers will pay more for "all natural" or "100% natural" foods or would not purchase the foods at all unless they were "all natural" and/or "100% natural" and/or free from unnatural and potentially dangerous chemicals.

83. Similarly, independent surveys confirm that consumers will purchase more "natural" products than conventional products, and will pay more for "natural" products.

G. Consumers' Reasonable Reliance on Topco's Misrepresentations

84. Consumers frequently rely on label representations and information in making purchase decisions, especially in purchasing food.

85. When Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members purchased Topco's granola, they saw the false, misleading, and deceptive representations detailed above, and did not receive disclosure of the presence of glyphosate or any warning of the dangers associated with glyphosate, as detailed above.

86. These misrepresentations and omissions were uniform and were communicated to Plaintiff, Scholder, and every other member of the Class at every point of purchase and consumption.

87. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members were among the intended recipients of Topco's deceptive representations and omissions.

88. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members reasonably relied to their detriment on Topco's misleading representations and omissions.

89. Topo's false, misleading, and deceptive misrepresentations and omissions deceived and misled, and are likely to continue to deceive and mislead, Plaintiff, Scholder, the Class members, reasonable consumers, and the general public.

90. Topco's misleading affirmative statements further obscured what it failed to disclose, and the warnings it failed to give. Thus, reliance upon Topco's misleading and deceptive representations and omissions may be presumed.

91. Topco made the deceptive representations and omissions with the intent to induce Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members to purchase its granola. Plaintiff, Scholder's, and the Class members' reliance upon such representations and omissions may be presumed.

92. Topco's deceptive representations and omissions are material in that a reasonable person would attach importance to such information and would be induced to act upon such information in making purchase decisions. Thus, Plaintiff, Scholder's, and the Class members' reliance upon such representations and omissions may be presumed as a matter of law; the representations and omissions were material; and a nexus exists between Topco's conduct, on the one hand, and Plaintiff, Scholder's, and the Class members' decisions to purchase Topco's granola at a certain price, on the other hand.

H. Topco's Conduct and Plaintiff's and the Class Members' Injury

93. As an immediate, direct, and proximate result of Topco's false, misleading, and deceptive representations and omissions, Topco injured Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members in that they:

- a. paid a sum of money for a product that was falsely represented;
- b. paid a sum of money for a product containing glyphosate, of which they received no warning;
- c. paid more for a product that was falsely represented than they would have paid had the product not been falsely represented;
- d. were deprived the benefit of the bargain because the granola they purchased was different from what Topco warranted;
- e. were deprived the benefit of the bargain because the granola they purchased had less value than what was represented;
- f. did not receive a product that measured up to their expectations as created by Topco;
- g. ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a substance that was other than what was represented;
- h. ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a substance they did not expect or consent to;
- i. ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a product that included an unnatural substance;
- j. without their knowing consent, ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a biocide that is harmful to their health or their children's health;
- k. without their knowing consent, ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a substance that is, contains, or is produced with a known or suspected toxin, carcinogen, or hazardous substance;
- l. without their knowing consent, ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a substance that poses health or environmental risks;
- m. without their knowing consent, ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a substance that is otherwise harmful to the environment and/or the farmers and other workers who utilize or process such substance;
- n. ingested (or caused their children to ingest) a substance that was of a lower quality than what Topco promised;
- o. were denied the benefit of knowing what they ingested (or caused their children to ingest);

- p. were denied the benefit of supporting an industry that sells natural products and contributes to environmental sustainability; and/or
- q. were denied the benefit of the beneficial properties of the “100% natural” products promised.

94. Had Topco not made the false, misleading, and deceptive representations and omissions, and had Topco not failed to warn of the presence of glyphosate and dangers associated with glyphosate, Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members would not have been injured as listed above. Accordingly, Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members have suffered “injury in fact” as a result of Topco’s wrongful conduct.

95. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members all paid money for Topco’s granola, but did not obtain the full value of the advertised products due to Topco’s misrepresentations and omissions. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members purchased, purchased more of, or paid more for, Topco’s granola than they would have had they known the truth about Topco’s granola. Accordingly, Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members have suffered “injury in fact” and lost money or property as a result of Topco’s wrongful conduct.

I. Topco’s Benefit from Its Misleading Representations and Omissions

96. Topco labels and advertises its granola products in large font as “100% natural” and has profited handsomely as a result.

97. As the intended, direct, and proximate result of Topco’s false, misleading, and deceptive representations and omissions, Topco has been unjustly enriched through more sales of its granola and higher profits at the expense of Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class members. As a direct and proximate result of its deception, Topco also unfairly obtained other benefits, including the higher value associated with a “natural” brand, redirecting sales to it and away from its competitors, and increased sales of its other products.

98. Plaintiff, Scholder, and all other similarly situated consumers, did not bargain for products that contain unnatural ingredients in exchange for their payment of the purchase price.

99. Topco has profited by failing to warn consumers of the presence of glyphosate in its granola or of the health effects of consuming glyphosate.

100. Upon information and belief, Topco has failed to remedy the problem with its granola, thus causing future harm to consumers. Plaintiff, Scholder, Class Members, and future purchasers in the consuming public, are at risk of real, immediate, and continuing harm if Topco's granola continues to be sold as is, and without adequate warning of the presence of glyphosate and of the health effects of ingesting glyphosate.

101. Plaintiff, Scholder, would continue to purchase Topco's granola again in the future if it were reformulated so that it did not contain glyphosate.

102. Topco has failed to provide adequate relief to Plaintiff, Scholder, or Class Members as of the date of filing this Complaint.

103. Plaintiff, Scholder, contends that Topco's granola was sold pursuant to unfair and unconscionable trade practices because the sale of Topco's granola offends public policy and is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous, and caused substantial economic injuries to Plaintiff, Scholder, and Class Members.

104. Reasonable consumers do not expect products advertised as "100% natural" to contain unnatural ingredients such as glyphosate. Defendants' statements and other representations convey a series of express and implied claims and/or omissions which Defendants know are material to the reasonable consumer in making a purchasing decision, and which Defendants intended for consumers to rely upon when choosing to purchase its granola.

105. Defendants misrepresented the nature, quality, and/or ingredients of its granola, and/or failed to adequately disclose the health risks of ingesting the glyphosate contained in its granola, which was and is false, misleading, and/or likely to deceive reasonable consumers. Reasonable consumers expect the presence of such ingredients to be disclosed so that they can make informed purchasing decisions.

106. Therefore, Topco's granola is valueless, and not worth the purchase price that Plaintiff, Scholder, and Class Members paid for it, and/or is not what Plaintiff and Class Members reasonably intended to receive.

107. Accordingly, Plaintiff, Scholder, seeks, individually and on behalf of all other similarly situated purchasers of Topco's granola during the Class Period, injunctive relief, and actual economic damages equaling the aggregate purchase price paid for Topco's granola by Plaintiff, Scholder, and Class Members during the Class Period.

108. Plaintiff, Scholder, also seeks declaratory relief in the form of an order declaring Topco's conduct to be unlawful, as well as injunctive and equitable relief putting an end to Topco's misleading and unfair business practices, including clear and full disclosure of the presence of glyphosate in Topco's granola and of the health effects of ingesting glyphosate and/or a reformulation of Topco's granola so that it no longer contains glyphosate.

CLASS ALLEGATIONS

109. Plaintiff, Scholder, re-alleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in each of the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

110. This action is maintainable as a class action under Rules 23(b)(2) and (3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

111. The class definition(s) may depend on the information obtained throughout discovery. Notwithstanding, at this time, Plaintiff, Scholder, brings this action and seeks certification of the claims and certain issues in this action on behalf of a Class of individuals defined as:

All persons who purchased Topco's granola (as defined herein) from a retail location within the United States from the beginning of any applicable limitations period through the date of class certification (the "National Class Period").

112. Additionally, Plaintiff, Scholder, brings this action pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on behalf of himself and all other similarly situated New York residents (the "New York Sub-Class"), defined as follows:

All persons who purchased Topco's granola (as defined herein) from a retail location within the State of New York from the beginning of any applicable limitations period through the date of class certification (the "New York Class Period").

113. Excluded from the Class and the New York Sub-Class are (1) Defendants, any entity or division in which Defendants have a controlling interest, and their legal representatives, officers, directors, assigns, and successors; and (2) the judge to whom this case is assigned and the judge's staff.

114. Plaintiff, Scholder, brings the Class and the New York Sub-Class pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a), 23(b)(1), 23(b)(2), and 23(b)(3).

115. Plaintiff, Scholder, reserves the right to amend the Class definitions if further information and discovery indicate that the Class definitions should be narrowed, expanded, or otherwise modified.

116. All members of the Class and New York Sub-Class were and are similarly affected by the deceptive advertising of Topco's granola, and the relief sought herein is for the benefit of Plaintiff and members of the Class and New York Sub-Class.

A. Numerosity

117. At this time, Plaintiff, Scholder, does not know the exact number of the Class and New York Sub-Class members. Based on the annual sales and popularity of Topco's granola, it is readily apparent that the number of consumers in the Class and New York Sub-Class is so large as to make joinder impracticable, if not impossible. Class and New York Sub-Class Members may be notified of the pendency of this action by recognized, Court-approved notice dissemination methods, which may include U.S. Mail, electronic mail, Internet postings, and/or published notice.

B. Common Questions of Law and Fact Predominate

118. There is a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law and fact involved in this case. Questions of law and fact common to the members of the Class and New York Sub-Class that predominate over questions that may affect individual Class and New York Sub-Class members include:

- (a) Whether Topco's practices and representations related to the marketing, labeling and sales of its granola were unfair, deceptive, fraudulent, and/or unlawful in any respect, thereby violating New York law;
- (b) whether Topco had a duty to disclose the presence of glyphosate in its granola;
- (c) whether Topco had a duty to warn about the dangers associated with glyphosate;
- (d) Whether Topco failed to warn Plaintiff and Class and New York Sub-Class Members of the presence of glyphosate in its granola and/or of the health effects of ingesting glyphosate in violation of New York law with its practices and representations related to the marketing, labeling, and sale of its granola;
- (e) whether Topco breached a warranty created through the labeling and marketing of its granola;
- (f) Whether Topco's conduct as set forth above economically injured Plaintiff and New York Sub-Class Members; and
- (g) Whether Plaintiff and New York Sub-Class Members are entitled to injunctive relief.

C. Typicality

119. Plaintiff, Scholder's, claims are typical of those of the Class and New York Sub-Class, as the claims arise from the same course of conduct by Defendants, and the relief sought within the Class and New York Sub-Class is common to the Class and New York Sub-Class members. Plaintiff, Scholder, like all members of the Class and New York Sub-Class, relied on Defendants' false and misleading representations and purchased Topco's granola, or paid more for Topco's granola than Plaintiff, Scholder, would have paid if the products had been properly labeled, and sustained injury from Defendants' wrongful conduct. Further, there are no defenses available to Defendants that are unique to Plaintiff.

D. Adequacy

120. Plaintiff, Scholder, will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class and New York Sub-Class. Plaintiff is an adequate representative of the Class and New York Sub-Class because his interests do not conflict with the interests of the Class and New York Sub-Class members he seeks to represent, and he has retained counsel competent and experienced in both consumer protection and class action litigation. Plaintiff, Scholder, and his counsel will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of the Class and New York Sub-Class. Undersigned counsel has represented consumers in a variety of actions where they have sought to protect consumers from fraudulent and deceptive practices.

E. Predominance and Superiority of Class Action

121. The prerequisites to maintaining a class action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3) are met because questions of law and fact common to each Class and New York Sub-Class Member predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and a class action is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy.

122. Individual joinder of the Class and New York Sub-Class Members is not practicable, and questions of law and fact common to the Class and New York Sub-Class predominate over any questions affecting only individual Class and New York Sub-Class Members. Each Class and New York Sub-Class Member has been damaged and is entitled to recovery as a result of the violations alleged herein.

123. Moreover, because the damages suffered by individual members of the Class and New York Sub-Class may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation would make it difficult or impossible for individual Class and New York Sub-Class Members to redress the wrongs done to them, while an important public interest will be served by addressing the matter as a class action. Class action treatment will allow those persons similarly situated to litigate their claims in the manner that is most efficient and economical for the parties and the judicial system.

124. Plaintiff, Scholder, is unaware of any difficulties in managing this case that should preclude class action.

F. Declaratory and Injunctive Relief

125. Certification also is appropriate under Rule 23(b)(2) because Defendants acted, or refused to act, on grounds generally applicable to the Class and New York Sub-Class, thereby making appropriate the injunctive relief sought on behalf of the Class and New York Sub-Class. Further, given the large number of consumers of Topco's granola, allowing individual actions to proceed in lieu of a class action would run the risk of yielding inconsistent and conflicting adjudications.

CAUSES OF ACTION

COUNT I

On Behalf of the Class and New York Sub-Class

126. The acts of Topco, as described above, and each of them, constitute unlawful, deceptive, and fraudulent business acts and practices.

127. Topco has labeled its granola products as "100% natural" when in fact the products contain glyphosate, an unnatural biocide.

128. Topco has violated, and continues to violate, § 349 of the New York General Business Law, which makes deceptive acts and practices unlawful. As a direct and proximate result of Topco's violation of § 349, Plaintiff, Scholder, and other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class have suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

129. Pursuant to New York General Business Law § 349, Plaintiff, Scholder, seeks an order of this Court that includes, but is not limited to, enjoining Topco from continuing to engage in unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business practices or any other act prohibited by law.

130. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class may be irreparably harmed and/or denied an effective and complete remedy if such an order is not granted.

131. The unfair and deceptive acts and practices of Topco, as described above, present a serious threat to Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class.

COUNT II

(Violation of the New York General Business Law § 349: Failure to Warn) On Behalf of the Class and New York Sub-Class

132. The acts of Topco, as described above, and each of them, constitute unlawful, deceptive, and fraudulent business acts and practices.

133. Topco has indicated that its granola products are “100% natural,” but has failed to warn that its granola in fact contains glyphosate, and has failed to warn consumers of the dangers associated with glyphosate.

134. Topco has violated, and continues to violate, § 349 of the New York General Business Law, which makes deceptive acts and practices unlawful. As a direct and proximate result of Topco’s violation of § 349, Plaintiff, Scholder, and other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class have suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

135. Pursuant to New York General Business Law § 349, Plaintiff, Scholder, seeks an order of this Court that includes, but is not limited to, enjoining Topco from continuing to engage in unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business practices or any other act prohibited by law.

136. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class may be irreparably harmed and/or denied an effective and complete remedy if such an order is not granted.

137. The unfair and deceptive acts and practices of Topco, as described above, present a serious threat to Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class.

COUNT III

(Violation of the New York General Business Law § 350)
On Behalf of the Class and New York Sub-Class

138. The acts of Topco, as described above, and each of them, constitute unlawful, deceptive, and fraudulent business acts and practices.

139. New York General Business Law § 350 provides: “False advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce or in the furnishing of any service in this state is hereby declared unlawful.”

140. GBL § 350-a defines “false advertising,” in relevant part, as “advertising, including labeling, of a commodity . . . if such advertising is misleading in a material respect.”

142. As sellers of goods to the consuming public, Topco is engaged in the conduct of business, trade, or commerce within the intended ambit of GBL § 350.

143. Topco’s representations made by statement, word, design, device, sound, or any combination thereof, and also the extent to which Topco’s advertising fails to reveal material facts with respect to its granola, as described above, constitute false advertising in violation of the New York General Business Law.

144. Topco’s false advertising was knowing and intentional.

145. Topco’s actions led to direct, foreseeable, and proximate injury to Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class and New York Sub-Class.

146. As a consequence of Topco’s deceptive marketing scheme, Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class suffered an ascertainable loss, insofar as they would not have purchased Topco’s granola had the truth been known, or would have purchased Topco’s granola on different terms, and as a result of Topco’s conduct, they received a product of less value than what they paid for.

147. By reason of the foregoing, Topco is liable to Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class for actual damages or five hundred dollars ($500) for each sale of Topco's granola (whichever is greater), injunctive relief, attorneys' fees, and the costs of this suit.

148. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class further seek to enjoin the false advertising described above.

149. Absent injunctive relief, Topco will continue to deceptively market its granola.

COUNT IV

(Based on Breach of Express Warranty) On Behalf of the Class and New York Sub-Class

150. Topco provided Plaintiff, Scholder, and other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class with written express warranties including, but not limited to, warranties that its granola is "100% natural."

151. These affirmations of fact or promises by Topco relate to the goods and became part of the basis of the bargain.

152. Plaintiff, Scholder, and members of the Class and New York Sub-Class purchased Topco's granola believing it to conform to the express warranties.

153. Topco breached these warranties. This breach resulted in damages to Plaintiff, Scholder, and other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class, who bought Topco's granola but did not receive the goods as warranted.

154. As a proximate result of the breach of warranties by Topco, Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class did not receive goods as warranted. Plaintiff, Scholder, and the members of the Class and New York Sub-Class therefore have been injured and have suffered damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

155. Among other things, Plaintiff and members of the Class and New York Sub-Class did not receive the benefit of the bargain and have suffered other injuries as detailed above. Moreover, had Plaintiff, Scholder, and the Class and New York Sub-Class members known the true facts, they would not have purchased Topco's granola, or would have purchased Topco's granola on different terms.

COUNT V

(Unjust Enrichment)

156. As a result of Topco's deceptive, fraudulent, and misleading labeling, advertising, marketing, and sales of its granola, Topco was enriched at the expense of Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class through the payment of the purchase price, or for the payment of a price higher than otherwise would have been paid, for Topco's granola.

157. As a result of Topco's failure to warn about the presence of glyphosate and about the dangers associated with glyphosate, Topco was enriched at the expense of Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class through the payment of the purchase price, or for the payment of a price higher than otherwise would have been paid, for Topco's granola.

158. Under the circumstances, it would be against equity and good conscience to permit Topco to retain the ill-gotten benefits that it received from Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class, in light of the fact that the granola products purchased by Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class were not what Topco purported them to be. Thus, it would be unjust or inequitable for Topco to retain the benefit without restitution to Plaintiff, Scholder, and the other members of the Class and New York Sub-Class for the monies paid to Topco for Topco's granola.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, Scholder, demands judgment on behalf of himself and the proposed Class and New York Sub-Class providing such relief as follows:

A. Certification of the Class and New York Sub-Class proposed herein under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a), (b)(1), (b)(2), and (b)(3); appointment of Plaintiff, Scholder, as representative of the Class and New York Sub-Class; and appointment of his undersigned counsel as counsel for the Class and New York Sub-Class;

B. A declaration that Topco is financially responsible for notifying members of the Class and New York Sub-Class of the pendency of this suit;

C. An order requiring an accounting for, and imposition of a constructive trust upon, all monies received by Topco as a result of the unfair, misleading, fraudulent, and unlawful conduct alleged herein;

D. Restitution, disgorgement, refund, and/or other monetary damages, together with costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorneys' fees pursuant to the applicable statutes and prejudgment interest at the maximum rate allowable by law;

E. Injunctive relief pursuant to New York General Business Law § 349 and common law, enjoining Topco's unlawful and deceptive acts;

F. Injunctive relief and statutory or actual damages pursuant to New York General Business Law § 350;

G. Punitive damages in accordance with proof and in an amount consistent with applicable precedent; and

H. Such further relief as this Court may deem just and proper.

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED
